

DIANA LUCKER

After SHS, I went to FSU and majored in Spanish. I met my former husband there who graduated from the hotel school there. We moved to New York, Nassau, California, Kansas City and then to Atlanta for 25 years. I was a stay-at-home mom, and played competitive tennis for those years. I was divorced in 1980 and returned to GSU and have a degree with Honors in Psychology. I have a son, Michael who is a screenwriter and currently working on projects for television writing, producing and directing for Lucky Dog Filmworks. My daughter also lives in Atlanta and is a LCSW for the Children's Hospital of Atlanta in the Emergency Room.

I returned to Florida in 1997 and currently live in Venice. I work for Safe Place and Rape Crisis Center, where I've been an advocate for 12 years. I have studied extensively with the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence, and the Office of the Attorney General in programs on batterer patterns, sexual assault, human trafficking, counseling elderly, disabled, and rural victims, and the effects of domestic violence on children. I am certified to register victims for the Address Confidentiality and Victim Compensation programs through the Office of the Attorney General.

I am a breast cancer survivor, and still love to swim and bike, and watch tennis, football and soccer.

It makes me sad to hear about the classmates we've lost, and I really look forward to seeing everyone at our 50th.
